BOTTES

EAGLE

1954

I remember that first day riding along San Jose Boulevard . . . I was hot and tired from the long trip and anxious to get settled down. It seemed as if we would never get to the school . . . any moment I expected to see the campus. I started to forget how tired I was, and all I could think about was what was in store for me. I was really curious . . . what would it be like? As we rounded a curve, the road widened into four lanes. Ahead of us I could see a sign . . . THE BOLLES SCHOOL. We turned right . . . there IT was.

I got out of the cab and grabbed my bags. I was a little nervous . . . I wasn't quite sure what to expect. There were guys running around . . . some had uniforms on, and others were in civies like myself. I felt alone. It seemed that everyone had someone to talk to . . . some even had their folks . . . and I was by myself. I happened to see some others in the same spot . . . it gave me some reassurance; so I went on to register.

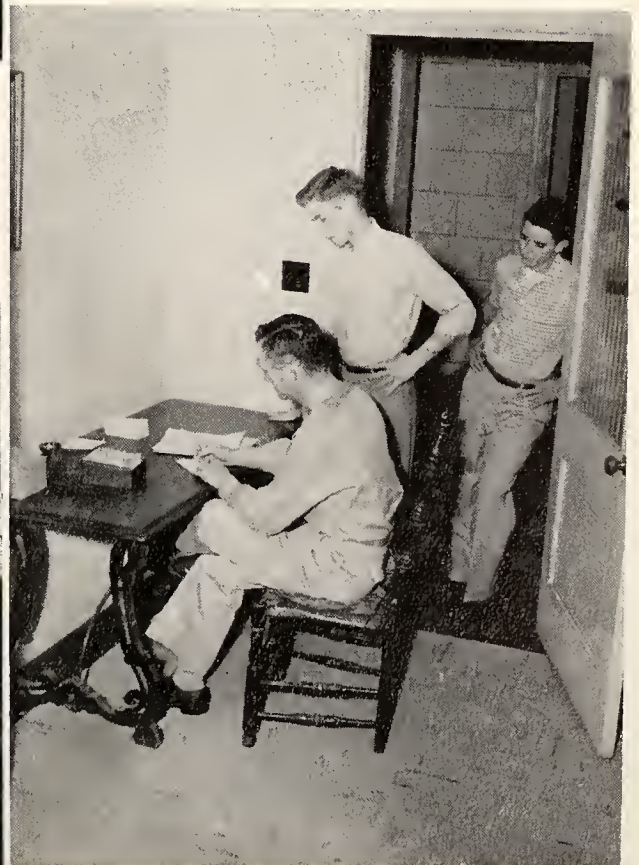

Next I met Major Hooker . . .

To listen to Major Gildersleeve talk, you would think it was going to be easy.

I got my uniforms . . . hats, and pants without pocket!

The people I met ...

The Superintendent...

MAJOR HOOKER was the man who guided us through the years as a counselor, a friend, and a fair judge for all of us. His influence moulded the life of a BOLLES cadet not only while he was at BOLLES but for the years to come. He will never be forgotten.

The Principal's Office...

Major Gildersleeve, Principal.

Captain Canaday, Assistant Principal.

Miss Othen and Mrs. Young.

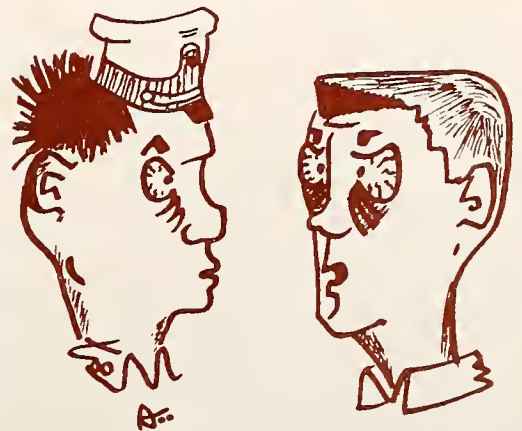

English Department...

Captain Walker's senior English class.

Studying English . . . is there anything else?

Language Department...

Captain Hochheim's Latin class.

¿Puedo yo tenor un plátano?
(Can I have a banana?)

History Department...

Colonel Ball's American History class.

History notes, anyone?

Science Department...

Lieutenant Wood's physics class.

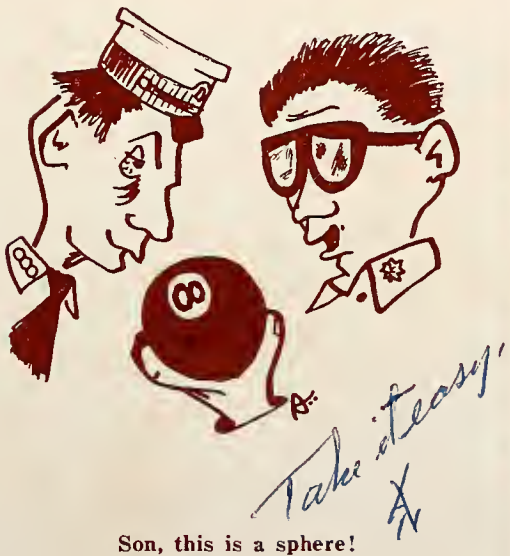

Besides Na in H_2O with . . .

Math Department...

Lieutenant Commander Nelmark's math class.

Commercial Department...

Captain Dorey's class.

This is where most of the business is carried on.

The Registrar

... Major and Mrs. Bradley.

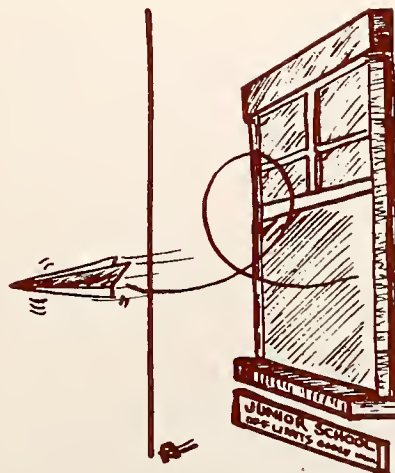

The Lower School...

Mrs. Ball, Principal.

Captain Martin, Bursar.

Captain Snyder, Band Director.

Mrs. Searles, Housemother.

Mrs. Woodruff, Nurse.

Mr. Wallsten, Steward.

Mrs. Klahr, Receptionist.

Mrs. Bergen, Remedial Reading Instructor.

Mrs. Smith, Librarian.

Mr. Klahr, Chief Engineer.

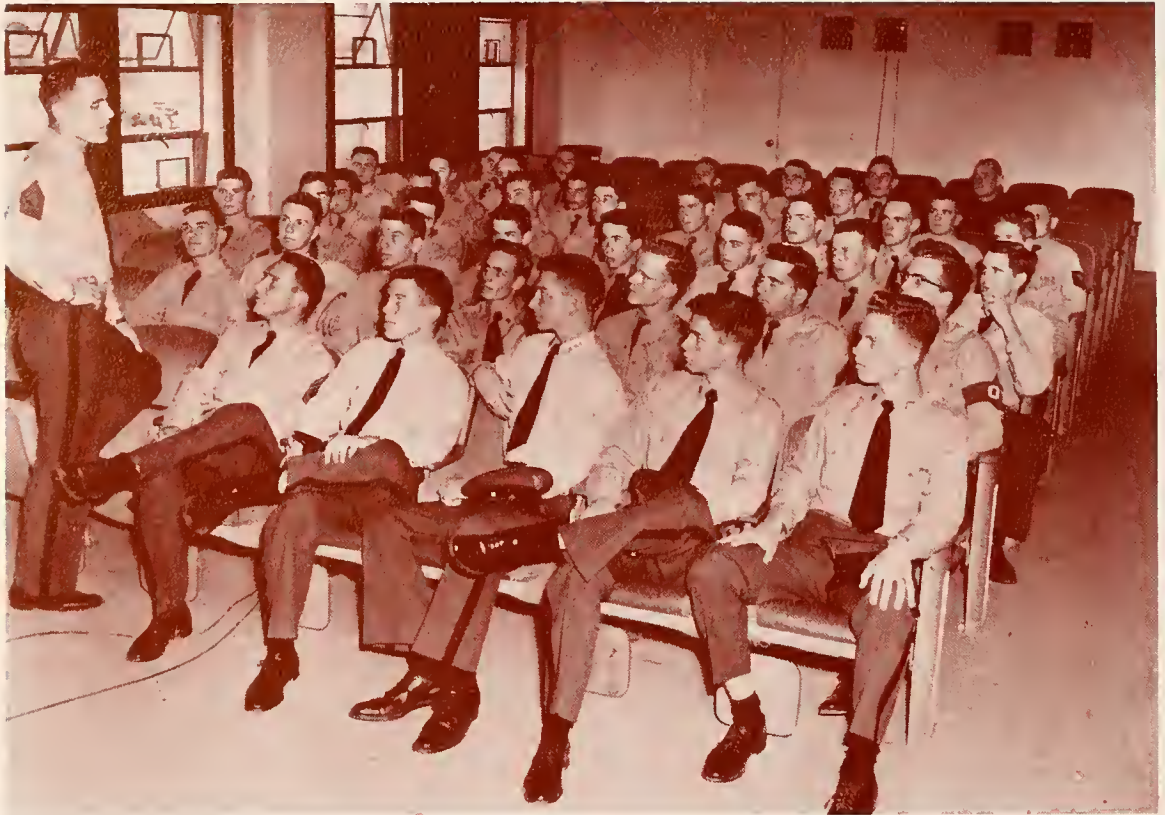

Mrs. Gunter and Chief Gordon, Canteen.

Mrs. Hooker and Mrs. Love.

Upperclassmen...

September, 1947, was the beginning of the senior class of 1954. Each year since then, a non-com here, an officer there, and just some of the regular fellows joined the core of the senior class of 1954. In this class could be found a little of everything: the athlete, the scholar, the artist, the writer, the musician, the military man, and the scientist—a typical segment of American society. What follows in this book is the story of the seniors and underclassmen in their everyday life at Bolles.

Tom Ingram, Vice-President; John Pearce, Secretary; Bev Litz, President; and Davidson Smith, Treasurer.

JOHN DODGE ADDIS
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

September of '47 found one of the foundation stones being placed for the '54 senior class. After several years at Bolles "Add" became slightly familiar with the manual of arms and easily walked off with the "Manual of Arms" competition in '53. Quiet as he was, the days boys of the third platoon of "A" company (as a matter of fact he was second in command) can vouch that he had a voice . . . hard-worker with all of these qualities . . . how can anyone fail?

IRA JEFFERSON ALLEN, JR.
HOUSTON, TEXAS

Ira brought with him to Bolles that friendly personality and sense of humor peculiar to the people of the Southwest. In addition to upholding the fame of the Texas "bullshooters," Ira, the long and lankey type, could cut the water easily and was able to make a few baskets for letters in '53. Academics have never proved to be his tale of woe. His view of the fairer species was comparable to that of a long-lost sailor on a lonely Pacific island. His quick wit and easy-going manner made him well liked by all.

PATRICK JORDAN ALLEN
HOUSTON, TEXAS

Pat, a Texan with no drawl . . . five subjects his senior year . . . baggy eyes and a great passion for the sack, came to Bolles via money. As an athlete, he earned his letter as manager of the '53 baseball team. In his second year at Bolles he was promoted to the Chief Petty Officer's job of "B" Company, having entered in '52 . . . associate editor of this book . . . His generosity and sincerity will lead him through the "briar patch" of life without a scratch.

DAVID VEDDER AUSTIN
OCALA, FLORIDA

BMOC . . . cruises on the Caribbean and Ford convertibles . . . "A" Company commander . . . he was even liked by the cadets; a crack in a stone visage was his trade mark. At the end of each year he smiled . . . at graduation he laughed. Academics proved that he didn't have a body; athletics proved that he had a mind. Seriousness of thought, keenness of mind assure him of a successful law career.

Best to be hope luck for the years ahead. I hope you get the best of everything in life. Best Wishes Dave.

WILLIAM ANDREW BAKER, JR.
TIMMONSVILLE, SOUTH CAROLINA

To come to the school was only a short journey for Bill. Carolina accounted for his slow easy manner which won him many friends quickly. Academics were not his dish, but he managed to stay on the black side of the ledger. Deaf as a door-nail at reveille, he had to be prodded constantly with an occasional glass of ice water administered freely. His dependability and likeableness will keep him on the top, no matter what his career.

*John,
Keep the school and don't get into it too much trouble.
It has been fun being in Physics with you this year. Lots of luck always.
Billy*

JOHN E. BARNES
LOKANSFORT, INDIANA

Who were Valentino and this man called Gable? Right at Bolles lived the man who could make them a fable! His gregarious tendencies have left him wondering how the end of the party came out many a night. Brains and muscle too . . . he earned a letter in football in '52 . . . "B" Club president '53-'54 . . . editor-in-chief of this masterpiece, "The EAGLE," Chief Petty Officer and second-in-command of the second platoon "B" Company. His "sparkling" personality and versatility will push him up the ladder of success.

*John - You've got an other big year ahead of you. I know you'll make the most of it.
Really enjoyed the past year. It's been smooth by great guy like you.
Best of luck.
John*

HAYES LEWIS BASFORD

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

Not much for music, he enjoyed the plain, simple style of hillbilly tune that captured the hearts of all mountain folk. Hayes' hobby was one woman, and she's no disappointment. Horses may also be considered one of his fancies; he rides them. His athletic ability was shown when he hit the football field for a letter in '53. His smooth nature, easy going manner, and dependability will make him a big cheese.

*Our Brof luck to a Hasting country boy. Don't eat to many letters
Best wishes
"Butch"*

ARTICE THOMAS BAZEMORE

SYLACAUGA, ALABAMA

His favorite pastime was by the mail boxes where his time was well rewarded with plenty of letters. With his sharp wit, easy going personality, and ever-ready smile Buddy won for himself many friends . . . quiet at times, though he could really unwind. Many a Sunday afternoon he could be seen in his room studying; needless to say, academics were not his pain. No matter where his friends go, they will be glad to see him again.

RAY BEADLE, JR.

PELHAM MANOR, NEW YORK

Hard work didn't faze this lad. This was shown by his job in the band. Chief Petty Officer . . . perfectly at ease in any situation. His academics proved to be the least of his worries; extra wind was used in a trumpet. His favorite form of amusement was an argument with a well-informed friend. With unrelenting effort and ability he's sure to be a success.

To John...
It has been a pleasure being with you in physics this year..
Best of luck and keep up the good work. Ray Beadle Jr.

ARNOLD MARION DAVIS

CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE

Better known as Dave . . . a smiling volunteer . . . spending most of his time in the pursuit of pleasure or in flight from regulations. Even though he didn't stand in the upper third of his class, he was by no means a bucket. His pet peeve was 6:30 reveille . . . followed by drill . . . favorite pastime, waiting for taps and marching into the mess hall. His personal integrity will guide him to a successful career.

JAMES MARTIN DOORLY
DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

"A" Company officers are going to have a h---uva time keeping "the below the tip of Florida cadets" quiet in future years after the departure of James Doorly into the ranks of a college student. His job of second-in-command of the second platoon "A" Company proved to be up his alley. He naturally excelled in Spanish, "shooting the bull," and track. His ambition will take him to Virginia Tech and a course in engineering.

TUCKER McLANE FLETCHER
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

"Hip-hip-hooray" and "She doesn't even rev my motors" will be repeated by the cadets of Bolles for many years to come. Despite being one of the wheels, he would talk to the guys still hoping. He wasn't actually obnoxious, but there was no need to try to change his mind once he made a statement or decided something. Smart he was, but his grades proved him to be idle. He plans to become a human butcher. No doubt he'll be a rich "doc."

GEORGE WILLIAMS GIBBS
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

His homey, comfortable manner put everyone at ease, and a chat with him always calmed frazzled nerves. There existed only one sore spot in his life. He was externally fighting with the Academic Department. In the end he forced "Gil" to a draw. By Golly! During the grimmer periods he kept his pals smiling. Placing his freedom before anything, George remained a day boy with the privilege of free weekends, which he made good use of. With a smile on his face, he'll always find happiness and success.

GAYTHA CLYDE GILBERT
CHARLESTON, SOUTH CAROLINA

Gatha, a refugee from South Carolina . . . a real warbler . . . and that's no bird! His pet expressions of "Ah dooo declar" and "Thank you suh" will echo in the band halls for many a year to come. This true Southern gent, suave and glib he may be, was rough enough to letter in football in '53 . . . even though he was apt to say "Sorry suh" after each tackle. With that voice and wavy hair, how do the females resist?

Faded handwritten text, likely a signature or note, mostly illegible.

JAMES WESLEY GRIFFIN

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

A long drink of water with a slow smile . . . hair that stood straight up in the front . . . tennis and other rackets . . . captain of the tennis team '54 . . . steady man with the women and books . . . Ivy League material with a bent elbow . . . Alpha Society, Quill and Scroll, and "B" Club . . . Bugle writer and managing editor of the EAGLE . . . plans to be a curer of tooth ailments . . . he'll scrape his feet on the top rung of the ladder.

RONALD WILLIAM HANCOCK

DAYTONA BEACH, FLORIDA

This lad's hobbies include: griping about the tough profs, chain smoking, and chasing the girls. His outstanding hobby could be that of dragging some unsuspecting female around the dance floor. Writing poetry could be considered one of his talents; in fact, he was good. With an eye to the future and his head in the clouds, he plans to enter some phase of accounting.

HAYWOOD HOWARD HARRELL
ROANOKE RAPIDS, NORTH CAROLINA

North Carolina's loss was Bolles' gain when "Cricket" found his way from the land, "Tar-heelia." His qualities of a natural Southern gent make him a natural bait of Southern belles. His broad smile and small stature give emphasis to the proverbial "dynamite comes in small packages." Explosions on the football field brought him a letter in '53. His industry brought him the rank of Chief Petty Officer and second-in-command of First Platoon "B" Company.

*Here's wishing a really swell guy the very best of

 It's really been great this

JOHN W. HINCK
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

Applying his free time to work as well as play, he earned a high school diploma (using the sentence loosely). A firm believer in the finer things of life . . . long weekends and lively parties. He could be called the king size portion of good will. With a smile and greeting for everyone he made drill almost bearable, marching along beating his drums. John is looking for big things and will be satisfied with nothing but a job in accounting.

*Best of luck
 to a great boy.
 John

HARRY LESLIE HOLLAND
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

He somehow managed to keep a smile on his face between vacations ("I love it here") . . . fun loving . . . capable . . . nice guy. Among his special interests would be the art of figuring out how to get away with things. Ira was his roommate so you know that he was a master . . . a gourmet in his own right, too. He didn't believe that his studies should interfere with his education. Academics merely irritated him. No matter what his desire, he'll succeed.

WILLIAM SCOTT HORNE
EXMORE, VIRGINIA

This picture is that of a pale, thin shadowed cadet. Bill wasn't the nervous type; he simply had the habit of chain smoking a pack at a time. He never had to worry about cleaning his nails; he didn't have any. He always returned from his vacations looking exceptionally thin, hollow eyed, and very sleepy . . . never would say why. As they say, hell will be paved with the skulls of great scholars . . . great guy . . . real gentleman. . . . This is one you'll never forget.

PHILIP GARDNER HOWE, JR.
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

His everlasting energy, his readiness to accept responsibility, and his ability to make friends made Phil one of the best. To describe his appearance . . .skinny is good, but a walking skeleton is better. When he played basketball, the opposition had trouble guarding him because he could slip through any opening. Law is his preferred vocation. Quiet as a mouse, yet he could command his platoon with force. His good judgment insures him a successful career.

GEORGE CLINTON HUFF
SARASOTA, FLORIDA

George "the man with the caustic remark" Huff is not the man to bluff. His academic record and general dependability brought the amazing record of becoming Battalion Adjutant his second year at Bolles. Those smooth rippling muscles have shown their might with the baseball bat for a letter in '53. West Point will have a fine young man in this sire.

THOMAS BENJAMIN INGRAM

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

This is another one of those sports, food, girls and party boys. Perhaps the latter explains his slight physique. One of his pet peeves was conceited people. You must admit that Tom is good looking; anyway, that's what he said. Everybody agreed that he was good at basketball; so did he. Engineering is calling this lad to design something or build something out-of-the-ordinary. What a guy . . . What a personality . . . he simply can't be described.

JULE KAUFMANN

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, FLORIDA

Yes, this man is Jule Kaufmann, smallest man in '54 . . . but let not size mislead you. The proverbial "Good things come in small packages" holds true in his case. His spare time he spent in the more pleasant forms of recreations such as riding to Jax Beach. His hobbies included investigating the "outside world"—literally, that is! With energy and good nature, he'll make the most of a fine career.

ARMIN ARIANS KRUEGER
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

He was one of the faster men in the school . . . on the track field also. He raced with the Academic Department and held his own against the onslaught without batting an eyelash. Armin was agreeable with everything except waiting on tables. He didn't have to worry too much as he was one of the wheels. You couldn't call him quiet and reserved nor boisterous and wild, but, either way, he would out-think you or out-talk you. A likeable person, he made a multitude of friends.

Armin Arians Krueger
Top of the class

CLARK MITCHELL LAMBERT
MARACAIBO, VENEZUELA

Whether he looks like a genius or not, he was one of Bolles' intellectual prodigies. At one time or the other his athletic career included managing the basketball team and the baseball team. Surprisingly enough he liked the mechanical drawings better than those with the geometrical aspect. As for merit bars, you name it; he's got it. "C" Company commander . . . The pitter-patter of little feet won't be an unusual sound to "Daddy" Lambert. Clark has that amiable manner which will take him far.

JEROME PITRE LANDRY
HOUSTON, TEXAS

Cadets! Need anything . . . phone numbers . . . screwdrivers . . . good advice . . . or even a little nostalgic Texas drawl? This was your man. His "hankering," while at this institution, was just to get back to that part of the country called Texas . . . chaste as the morning dew . . . even though he was thin. Sharp misery had worn him to the bone. He decomposed academics until it was just a hill of beans . . . trumpeter in the band . . . congenial . . . swell fellow.

CONRAD BEVERLY LITZ
COCOA, FLORIDA

"Well, good buddy," "Thank you, good buddy," could be called the characteristics of this portion of the male species. A one-woman man if there ever was one . . . it's a long ride back and forth to Cocoa every weekend. "One of the Bonus Babies" (Master Sergeant "A" Company) and senior class president his second year at Bolles, not bad! The baseball diamond called him into centerfield and onto the mound. Level headed, good natured, loyal . . . these are the words to describe Bev and his personality.

*a good old hankering

JOHN STILLWELL MALONE
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

From the horde of tomcats who make females their hobby, John was more or less outstanding. Playing in the backfield on the football team and swimming on the swimming team make John fast on the ground and in the water. Poor girls don't stand a chance. Academics didn't bother him. If there was a party somewhere or something happening, you can bet that academics waited. Hard-working and thoughtful, John has what it takes to make a go of life.

FERNANDO CALLETAS MARICHAL
TEGUCIGALPA, HONDURAS

Our one and only postgraduate, "Nando" came to Bolles to brush up on his English, but he could have done the teaching after the first month. The post office received much aid from the cost of letters mailed to his home in Honduras. He conquered the academic barriers with the greatest of ease. Sciences were his specialty, and he lived for those classes. He had to take something so he thought he might as well like it. Wherever he may be, he'll have friends.

*To a really good friend
best wishes now and always.
F. Marichal.*

WILLIAM W. MILLER
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

What this guy didn't know about radios, radios didn't know about it themselves. His French strictly came from the French horn. Young ladies were not his conquest; academics were more his type. A "landlubber" never was he; paddling in a pool was his favorite sport. Roaming through the darkness of life he's bound to find a bright light.

*to a good

CHARLIE OSCAR MITCHELL
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

Another one of those three year buddies! A nice guy that would do anything for you and beg you to let him do it! He had an occasionally mean streak, especially when he tackled a football letter in '53. The calisthenics of getting an education left an occasional bit of soreness, but the old remedy of the studying liniment proved a quick cure. "Mitch" wasn't female crazy, but he did like them; they liked him, too. He wouldn't admit it, though. Genuinely sincere, always pleasant, "Mitch" was an all-round good guy.

*The best of everything to a good Joe!
Good luck,
"Mitch"*

LEONARD NICHOLAS MOE
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

With a voice like the rotund tuba he played "Mike" commanded the band with the voice of Stentor. Music and art were his pastimes . . . wonder if that was calendar art? Scholastic tribulations . . . There weren't any. His favorite sport was basketball, not as a player but as a manager. Defeat will never be known to this lad.

CHARLES MORCELINI MORALES
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

Charlie adjusted his ways to Bolles easily, considering that he was a cool-tool from public school before entering Bolles in '52. Short but widely spread, he threw his weight around the football field for a letter in '53. Like any normal Bolles cadet his favorite subjects include geometrical perspectives like those of Marilyn Monroe. Well liked, his ambition is to major in Business Administration.

istration.

RICHARD S. PAINE, III
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

Much could be said about this "mighty mite," but the rules of printing would reject the tales of "Big Rick's" deeds. A lover he was thought to be (He thought so, too). No firsthand information was to be had. Fish was something else he tried to catch frequently. "Papa" Paine will be well prepared with the diaper pins after his service in "C" Company. Smiling face . . . congenial . . . a good word for everyone . . . he won't be forgotten.

*To Mr. Paine

JOHN LYNWOOD PEARCE
MIAMI, FLORIDA

Battalion commander . . . president student council . . . co-captain of swimming team '54 . . . all merit bars possible . . . and an awfully loud voice! He just didn't look at you; he stared and glared until you melted or tried to. Off the post he was discovered to be a human being, but without the dignity of his high office on the post. He liked to play like a fish in the water, and he was exceptionally good. "Failure" will never be a word in the vocabulary of John Pearce.

school and in the "lets class.*

BYRON DeFOREST RALL
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

The band called this "horn tooter" into its service in September of '52. Byron soon became the typical Bolles cadet who liked his food, sleep, weekends and disliked work. If he had to work, he preferred mathematics. College plans will send him as a marine engineer to MIT. His academic dexterity made him one of the "brains"; he looks like one, doesn't he? For athletics, he played in intramurals. If hard work takes man any place, Byron will be there first.

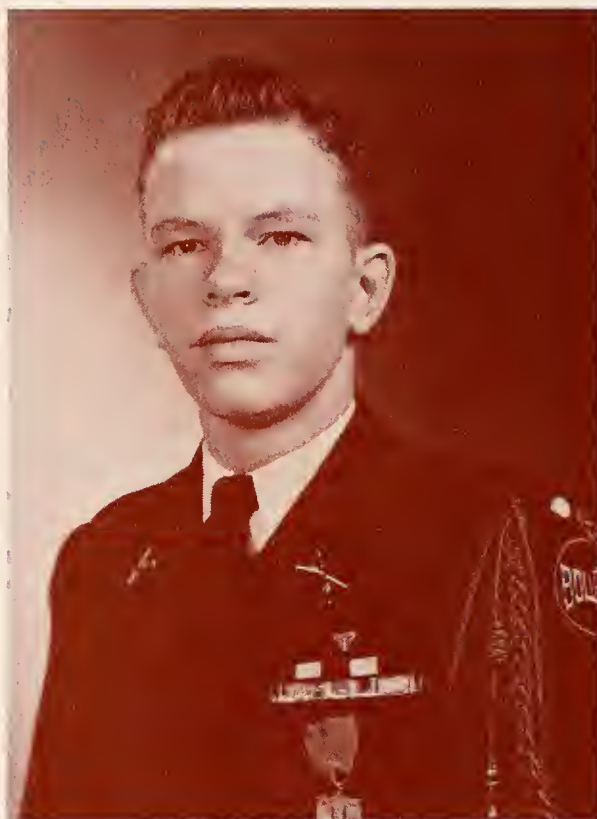

ROBERT A. SHELOR, JR.
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA

Ravishing Robert . . . "the sugar lips" of the lovers . . . Three-day wonder of O.C.S. . . . roly-poly, after vacations only . . . voted "favorite one to rock them to sleep" by the "C" Company crib boys . . . a teacher's natural pet . . . how else did he make those grades unless he had some brains? President of the Alpha Society . . . Secretary "B" Club, he survived initiation . . . tried to play tennis with a golf stroke and hit the ball without moving after each shot . . . tremendous future in anything.

MARCUS DAVIDSON SMITH, JR.
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

Becoming playful in his old age, "Doc" finally took up the habit of taking out girls when he was a junior. Starting at Bolles when he was in the sixth grade, he momentarily forgot the fairer species. Dang good thing it was out in the open when he called the day boys to attention with that raucous voice, and there was no echo. After becoming conscious of living dangerously, "Doc" became the Bartram romeo. Never forgot a friend . . . never to be forgotten by a friend.

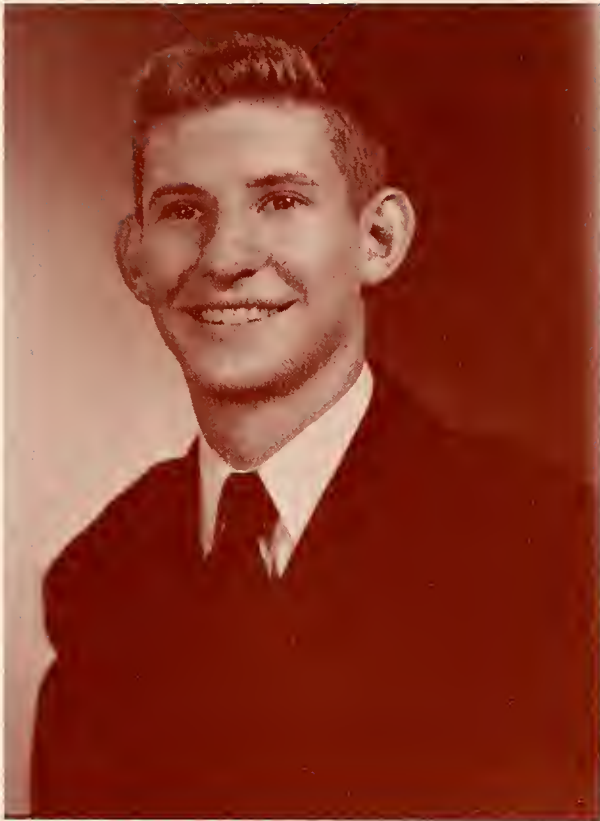

CHARLES ALFRED TOVEY
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

C. A. decided he couldn't take any more of that dull public school life and so, Bolles and a life? His repertoire includes the calls of the deep, dark jungle. His suavete is the accomplishment of many hours with the fairer species . . . of the latter he could be considered a connoisseur. From the flock of wild maniacs driving today C. A. has survived to win the Florida State Car Road-e-o for two consecutive years. A great guy and swell buddy . . . his friendliness and determination will pave his way in any branch of life.

John - Best I think to you in the coming years - I hope it only = C. A. Tovey!

JOHN DEXTER WATSON
CLERMONT, FLORIDA

"Bird-dog" (one who steals another's girl) didn't acquire his name by staying at Bolles on the weekends. His rough, tough attitude made him a wheel on the football field for a letter in '53. His diligence won him the daily battles of the academic struggle. His spare time he spent hunting . . . funny thing, he never did say what! . . . animals? . . . birds? . . . females? The thoughtfulness with which he regarded his friends and his sincerity in work and play will make his buddies remember him as a fine classmate.

I hope you have all the luck in the world in football next year. Buddy

THOMAS COURTNEY WATTS
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

Take a good look at this creature! He was the one and only Bolles cadet that didn't like girls. Playing pool was much more interesting to him than wasting money on girls. "Squats," as he was called, was endowed with this name because of his shape. The only time he found energy to move fast enough to burn a little of that oil was on the baseball field in '52, '53, and '54. With his obsession that mental work is more beneficial than physical, he'll succeed.

TERRY CLARK WEAR
DOWAGIAC, MICHIGAN

"Bean" liked the girls and spent his weekends in pursuit of them. Coming to Bolles from Lima, Ohio, Terry found the life of being connected to militarism harder than it was cracked up to be . . . especially the 6:30 reveille and the drill. He didn't hate people, but he hit 'em hard when he tackled a football letter in '53. Not only did he like to shoot the breeze, but he also liked to ride breezes in a sail boat. If he didn't have a dime to loan you, he borrowed one and gave it to you.

WILLIAM WEATHERS, JR.
MERRITT ISLAND, FLORIDA

If you ever want to know how it felt to make 90's in the senior English, just ask this scholar. He must have had some inside pull as no one else seemed to be able to make a 90. He must have had pull elsewhere as his other grades exhibited. "Willie's" second year at Bolles found him with the rank of Petty Officer First Class in the band. Not bad, eh! His favorite dislike was the people who wanted to borrow his analytical geometry homework. If brains have anything to do with success, he'll be on top.

JOHN GREGORY WILSON

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

"Greg's" favorite hobby was the life of an outdoorsman. Wonder if he meant "mother-nature?" As an officer he had to overlook his dislike for 6:33 reveille and get up on time to set an example. Even though he was large enough to float easily, he had to get his letter as manager of the swimming team because he was too lazy to move in the water. Editor-in-chief of the "Bugle" took up his spare time in his senior year. Affluence will come easily to this friendly, conscientious cadet.

CHARLES ANTHONY WHITE

HOUSTON, TEXAS

Another loud-mouth from Texas but only in a quiet way. Typical Texan . . . disliked work . . . liked to sleep . . . liked to eat . . . liked any form of talking. He joined the Glee Club just so he could sing as loudly as possible. Movies were one of his favorite pastimes, especially the good kind. The extent of his ambition is to attend college after graduation from Bolles and to marry a Texas beauty. He said that there were some good looking "chicks" down "thar." Life will be interesting for him.

Juniors...

We're the guys that still have another year of battling with the academic department. We have had a little taste of responsibility this year. Next year from this group will come the leaders of BOLLES. This is another part of the BOLLES story.

Reveille . . .

This was the time that the old sack was the warmest, and I was the sleepest. That 6:30 bugle was the most terrible noise that anybody ever heard, and cold . . . I would have sworn that it was below zero some mornings. The most cruel man in the battalion was the first sergeant who yelled, "OUT IN THE HALL."

Time to get up, already?

Two minutes 'til the bell and I still gotta dress.

FIRST PARADE AND TEA DRAW MANY VISITORS

Valentine Day Dance Held February 12.

Invitations were issued by Major and Mrs. DeWitt E. Hooker for an informal Valentine Dance held Friday evening, February 12, from 8:30 till 12:00 o'clock in the main reception room of the Elchard J. Bolles Hall.

Red berries, red cupids, hearts and arrows hanging from the center ceiling, and streamers on the pillars, with hidden individual valentines for the guests, made up the decorations.

Music was furnished by Bee Haven and her orchestra. The refreshments, under the direction of Mr. W. W. Wallsten, were served during the intermission.

Those who helped in the arrangement of the party were: Mrs. D. E. Hooker, chairman; Mrs. M. M. Bradley, Mrs. W. F. Klahr, invitations; Mrs. D. S. Searles, Mrs. C. W. Lamb, Mrs. E. D. Hall, Mrs. C. W. Toole, Mrs. N. Canaday, Jr. decorations; Mr. W. W. Wallsten refreshments; and Captain C. H.

Progress Shown In Close Order Drill

The first parade of the year was held Sunday afternoon, January 24. About 150 guests attended the afternoon's activities.

Three hundred and fifty cadets donned blue dress to participate. The parade started about 3:30 P. M. and lasted until about 4:30 P. M. Major Hooker said that the review looked good despite the limited practice. Colonel Ball was quite proud of the "C" Company cadets for their excellent performance.

Captain Snyder used for the first time a "street beat" type music. This type of music not only sounds better to the observer, but it also provides a constant cadence for the marchers.

Decorations

The new palm trees in the lobby were given to the school by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stevens, parents of Bob Stevens. The trees are everlasting, need no care and provide a tropical background setting. The center piece of magnolias and tulips was given by

Board of Trustees Changes Announced

Major Dewitt E. Hooker announces that all offices of the Bolles School Board of Trustees have been re-elected, and two new members have been elected to the board.

The new board members are Fred H. Kent, theater executive, and Angus B. Rosborough, insurance man.

Officers of the board are Fontaine LeMaistre, president; Robert H. Paul Jr., vice president; and Herman Ulmer, Jr., secretary. Clifford G. Schuit was named honorary chairman.

The executive committee consists of Mr. LeMaistre, Mr. Paul, and Mr. George H. Hodges as regular members. Mr. Ulmer and Major Hooker serve as ex-officio members.

Eagle...

Here are the cadets who are responsible for the 1954 EAGLE. Through their tireless efforts the new idea became a reality.

John Barnes, Editor-in-Chief . . . he started the ball rolling and kept it going.

Jimmy Griffin, Managing Editor . . . he was the Editor's right hand man, and the senior sketches were his baby.

Clark Lambert, Business Manager . . . had to figure where all the money was going to come from.

Bob Harrell . . . he took the pictures.
(Good job, wouldn't you say?)

Pat Allen, Associate Editor
. . . funny man on the cartoons.

Bill Baker and Bill Horne, Advertising . . . these guys always had their big mouths open.

Jerry Landry, Assistant Editor . . . lucky to get him away from that typewriter, even for a picture.

Adrian Birney and Dave Austin, Assistant Editors . . . Adrian came up with some good ideas, and Dave put them down on paper.

Griffin Rountree . . . he drew squares.

Captain Roy was very serious about whole thing, but . . .

Captain Walker thought it was all a big joke.

Phil Degnon, Assistant Editor . . . a big man on the staff; when you wanted to know something, Phil had the answers.

Bob Shelor, Ira Allen, and Mike Moe didn't get in a picture, but they still worked hard.

Drill...

2:15 . . . This part of the day I didn't always enjoy. It was usually hot, and I couldn't think of anything to get light duty for . . . so I was just out of luck. March, march, march . . . it seemed like that was all we did. In spite of lack of enthusiasm . . . company competition was always in the back of my mind. There were classes, too . . . I didn't mind 'em much. Sometimes it was a little hard to keep my eyes open. But all in all this part of my day was just as important as any other part.

Drilling again.

Dismissed!

What a relief getting rid of those rifles . . .

Dayboys to the locker room . . .

I stopped in the canteen for a coke, and then I went up to the barracks to get dressed for athletics.

I remember those early practices last August . . . how could I forget them? Twice a day: practice, practice, practice . . . I never thought I'd make it. Sometimes I wished I were dead. When it didn't rain, the sun blazed down . . . when Coach Lamb wasn't bawling us out, Coach Stasco was. I lived through it, though, and loved it.

Calisthenics!

All right, boys, let's not fight.

Weight Lifting...

To fire this, you have to pull the trigger. (Well, I'll be . . . !)

Was it weightlifting or weightlosing?

That's the "gruntingest" crowd I ever heard.

I always heard that these things were heavy.

Intramurals...

Another athletic formation . . . wonder which platoon's going to win today?

Gosh! Will it get over?

"C" Company...

Soccer . . . kick it again, Joe!

Who's going to get there first?

Gilliland's a shrewd dribbler, isn't he?

Demons on the court . . .

Those basketball games really got hot . . .

Tiny Bobby on a big backhand.

I know it's here somewhere.

Dayboy bus formation in three minutes . . .

That's "Doc" up front . . .

"Squats" always ready to go home.

Waiting for mess formation . . .
(When you're going to take a picture, they always have to pose.)

Kaufmann and Edgerton are a little pale, aren't they?

There they go . . .

Pass the cake. Whose birthday is it?

A little peace and quiet.

Got change for a quarter?
. . . and what's her number again?

Good buddy, why were you late for C. Q.?

Edgerton's studying . . . but where's Royce?

A little help from Captain Roy.

Can ya handle it, Ira?

8:30 P. M.

Finally got around to writing Mom and Dad.

Two hours of study hall can really get you hungry.

It was a busy day, and I was all ready to hit the sack. (Looks like Mitch is trying to get Haywood to tuck him in.)

Taps . . .

Christmas Week...

Finally that big week rolled around. Exams were coming up, and I was hitting the books pretty hard. I was having a lot of trouble concentrating, though, with the thought of going home running through my mind. The time just couldn't pass fast enough.

We were all a little nervous . . . it was our first exam of the year. The bull sessions at the canteen loosened us up a lot . . .

The exams finally rolled around.

It's all over . . .

The night of the Christmas dance was a big one. It was wonderful to be with a girl again.

Ronnie and his girl put on an exhibition for us.

But Captain . . . are you sure we can't leave any sooner than that?

Whoopee, we're out! (Going home at last.)

Back again...January

Vacation was out of this world, but I was so happy to be back!

Ohhhh! I had a wonderful time!

I didn't think I'd ever get settled again.

I got to the canteen and saw that there was something in my box. I raced over and twisted the dial, opened the door, reached in and ... a shoe repair card!

Sunday...

About nine o'clock I wished that it was Saturday again . . . Sunday mornings were for the birds.

Going to church . . .

SMI

And all I asked was, "Would somebody carry my laundry down for me?"

Dear Jean . . .
(sigh) I'd give anything to be with you this afternoon . . .

Saturday...

Aw, get outtahere, I want to sleep.

It sure felt good to get into civies and go down to the canteen for a sweet roll and a cup of coffee.

School on Saturday, too! Santoni really looks down in the dumps. Must have had a date to play tennis.

Requesting leave, Sir . . .

It felt good to be going into town.

Jacksonville!

Free at last! My list of things to do was a mile long. Saturday was really going to be a busy day.

It must be study hall . . .

MAKING BANKING A PROFESSION

What will banking give you if you select banking as a profession? After you have graduated from high school, it will give you:

1. A good job.
2. A good salary.
3. Interesting work.
4. An opportunity to help others.
5. A position of prestige.

This is what the book, "They Went to College" by Ernest Havemann and Patricia Salter West, has to say on the subject. "Principally, more graduates who went into banking have reached the $7,500 and over bracket than in any other business."

This may apply as indicated to college graduates; however, high school graduates have an equal chance if they will apply themselves.

What does a student want — what kind of a job does he want? High school and college counselors say, "An opportunity to work for a company that offers a challenge, interest and advancement. A job which will prove more than a routine assignment. A salary which enables him to meet his responsibilities."

Can banking meet these requirements? Yes! We offer more than they ask. Why not look into it?

But, Captain, didn't we see you in the Florida balcony?

What was that?

Finally . . . to bed.

Commencement...

At last . . . it didn't seem possible. Thoughts throughout the year were centered on this week . . . and now it was here. I was happy and excited in a funny sort of way. Now the final moments were rolling around; I wasn't as anxious to leave the "old place" as I thought I would be. I was ready to leave, but BOLLES wasn't so bad after all. Final exams were rolling around . . . I had already started to pack. I just couldn't keep my mind on my books.

Eyes right! I was shaking like a leaf, but I never tried harder in all my life.

My girl, the folks, my friends . . . and everybody was there to see us.

The final parade.

The next morning (the last one) I put my left shoe on three times and realized that as I was tying my tie my shirt was still on the bed. I know that I forgot to eat breakfast.

Just waiting, waiting, waiting . . . it was murder.

The stone was planted; there was a tremendous cheer. The whole campus was filled with people shaking hands and bidding goodbys.

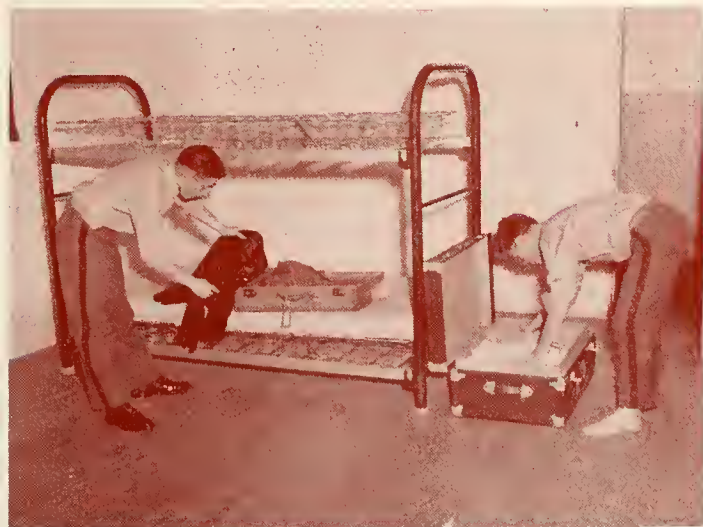

It was quite a sight from the tower.

Then the colors were lowered for the last time.

Cleaning up the room was a big job. (It sure looked bare.)

That was it . . .

Dedication

You've seen the 1954 BOLLES EAGLE. You know that it doesn't follow the traditions of previous BOLLES EAGLES. This is your book; the book of any BOLLES Cadet; it is the BOLLES story. The EAGLE is not an ordinary annual; the story is not an ordinary story; this dedication is not an ordinary dedication. This guy is the most important guy in the world. He's a nice guy. He can be found any place on the campus . . . the AVERAGE BOLLES CADET. Maybe this guy wasn't captain of a team or even a member of a varsity sports squad, but just the fellow who had thoughts of being a star. He could have played in intramurals. No matter what, though, he was important. He might have been an officer in a club or just a member, but—by golly—he was a big part of the organization. He's the guy who marched along in ranks and dreamed of three buttons but never got them, or the guy who had three buttons and yelled when a mistake was made. You might know this fellow better than anyone else in the world. HE'S YOU —THIS GUY IS YOU. The 1954 BOLLES EAGLE is YOURS.
